QUESTIONS OF THE WEEK

(Editor's note: Here are the questions asked most frequently by Virginia farmers during the past week, as reported by county agricultural agents. Staff members of the VPI Agricultural Extension Service and/or Experiment Station supply the answers).

Q. How early can I seed rye for fall grazing?

A. Any time after mid-August.

Q. Do you advise selling good yearling steers weighing 700 to 800 pounds now, or holding for late September or October?

A. There is no indication of a price drop on feeder cattle in that weight range between now and October, and any gain you can put on them will probably pay. A good market in Virginia is the organized feeder calf sales. Ask your county agent about the one in your area.

Q. Can chemicals be used around a lawn area to keep out snakes? If so, what chemical should be used?

A. Chemicals are not usually effective against snakes. However, snakes are rather susceptible to DDT, and a DDT barrier might do some good for a while. Mechanical barriers are better, but are not usually practical. Additional suggestions are given in a leaflet, "Control of Snakes," available in limited quantities from the Wildlife Research Unit, VPI, Blacksburg.

Q. What can I do to stop peach rot?

A. There's not much you can do now. After harvest, be sure to clean up the orchard, then consult your county agent about a spray program for next season.

Q. How can I control bagworms?

A. Insecticides applied this late won't be very effective, as larvae must be feeding for them to do much good. After larvae stop feeding, hand-picking and burning is the only way to control bagworms until they start hatching again next spring.

Q. Why do tomatoes fail to ripen? They have grown to a normal size, but they stay green.

A. Not much is known about the causes of this trouble. Be patient. They will probably ripen.

Q. Which crop is better — crimson clover or vetch — for winter cover to be turned for corn?

A. Either crop is good for "green manure." If you use crimson clover be sure to seed early enough for it to become established before cold weather.

Q. When is the best time to harvest red clover seed?

A. Cut for seed when most of the blooms are in the mature seed stage. A well-filled head, when rubbed in the palm of the hand, should show 30 to 60 seeds. Some of the seeds should have begun to show a violet color.

KNOW THE WEATHER

By E. H. Sims

Does lightning always strike the ground?

Lightning does not always strike the ground.

In fact, most of the electrical discharges we call lightning occur in the clouds and never reach the ground level. They constitute an exchange of electrically - charged particles, positive and negative, and some of it upset balance between positive and negative particles is lacking.

Aerial lightning is of relatively little danger, compared to ground strikes. Since there is no grounding involved, aircraft often incur strikes and survive them unharmed.

TOURS WORLD

Los Angeles, Calif.- People who dream about traveling around the world, then shake their heads over the cost, can learn an interesting lesson from Don Ahlstrom.

The bearded former service man did it on a budget of $500 and arrived in Los Angeles on a Japanese tanker with $6 left. He had toured 18 countries, mostly on a motor scooter.

Ahlstrom, 25, financed his 21-month trip by working at odd jobs along the way.

Thanks For Nothing

Opelika, Ala.- When a tire went flat on his car outside this small town, Charlie Plott went looking for help. He returned to find the car stripped of tools, fender skirts, air filter, floor mats, radio, hub caps, and four tires. The thief left the flat tire for Plott.

Customer Wasn't Right

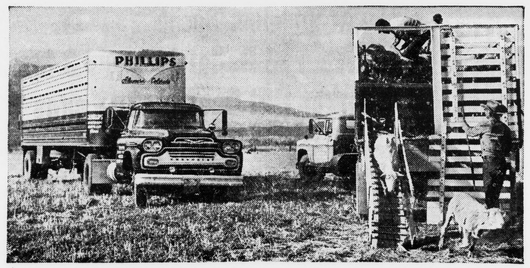
Two Chevy middleweights prove their rawhide stamina!



Top hands on high-country hauls!

Ask any trucker who's been over Wolf Creek Pass, 10,850 feet up in the San Juans: a 9-mile pull to the summit and low gear all the way down. Mr. C. H. Phillips of Alamosa, Colorado, has a 6403 and a 6503 Chevrolet truck that are up over this route the year round, taking sheep and beef to pasture, later marketing the stock in Denver. In less than a year, his Chevy middleweights have averaged about 50,000 miles of this kind of treatment—and they're going stronger than ever!

Watch Chevy trucks at work out in range country. It's a sight to see the way they pack into high-up mountain pastures and handle through brush and rock like a cowman's favorite cutting horse. Take any truck work for that matter. Chevy middleweights probably handle a bigger variety of jobs than any trucks alive. About anything you name, including work that used to be reserved strictly for bigger rigs. When a truck's built the way a Chevy is, lean-muscled and rawhide-tough, it takes to ugly trails the same way most trucks roll over the highway. It just keeps going, without a big to-do, but looking good every mile of the way. How they do it is your Chevrolet dealer's department. He'll be glad to supply details and specifications on the type of models you need.

Liberty Baptist Church

Dr. Floyd M. North, Editor of The Commission, a monthly world journal published by the Department of Missionary Education of the Southern Baptist Foreign Mission Board, will be the featured speaker at Liberty Baptist Church Sunday. Dr. North will help develop the theme for the day, "Missions."

Dr. North is a native of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, and a graduate of Oklahoma Baptist University. He did graduate work at George Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn., and the University of Chicago.

The evening service will be devoted to a pageant, "Blazing New Trails Through Missions," under the direction of Mrs. W. Scott and Mrs. A. R. Harwood. The pageant will be in three parts and have fifteen scenes. The Beginning of the Modern Day Mission Movement, beginning with William Carey in England in 1761, includes the first act. Characters to be portrayed will be William Judson, Adoniram and Ann Judson, Luther Rice, Lewis and Henrietta Shuck, Mrs. Ann Graves, Lottie Moon and Annie Armstrong, Mrs. J. E. Jeter, first Virginia Baptist women's missionary society president; and Miss Sue Gwathmey, first president of the Liberty Baptist Association.

The second act will have the following characters: Dr. George Braxton Taylor, Father of Sunbeams; Miss Suzy Taylor Whitting-ton, first organizer of YWA's at Liberty; Miss Fannie E. S. Mock, the first treasurer of the Royal Ambassador movement in 1907; Miss Elizabeth Fuqua, the first Counselor for G. A.'s at Liberty; the former presidents of the Liberty Brotherhood, C. C. Poe, Murrell Ferguson, Paul Drinkard, and incoming president, S. A. Lawson; the WMU president, Mrs. S. B. Marshall, and Circle Leaders, Mrs. Jack Davis, Mrs. Clara Davis, Mrs. Paul Drinkard, Mrs. Don Moses, Mrs. Ted Carter, Mrs. Thomas Richardson, Mrs. Dick Ashworth, and Mrs. Robert Bumgardner.

The challenge for the future of missions in our church, as a part of the last act, will be given by Mrs. A. R. Harwood, Jr., who is the Superintendent of WMU for the Appomattox Baptist Association. The prayer of dedication will be led by the pastor.

To Attend Convocation

. . . Miss Peggy Godsey

Miss Peggy Godsey, of Appomattox, will leave Sunday, August 23, by train, to attended the Seventh National Convocation of Methodist Youth to be held on the campus of Perdue University, Lafayette, Indiana, the week of August 24-28.

Miss Godsey's trip to the convocation is being sponsored by her church, the Memorial Methodist Church, Appomatox, as an expression of appreciation for her faithful and devoted service in all phases of church work, especially as assistant organist and active worker in the Youth Fellowship.

The Convocation will be made up of more than six thousand young people and their adult leaders from all over the United States.

The theme of the Youth Conclave is "Man's Need and God's Action," and national and international youth leaders will lead those attending in an exploration of man's present condition and an application of the affirmation of the Christian Faith to these contemporary situations. In the mornings of the week, platform speakers will explain basic theological convictions and in the evenings, there will be programs focusing perspectives on human needs.

These convocations, held every four years in convenient locations over the United States, are predicated upon the Christian confident that in serious encounter man's need can be understood and met by God's action.

Arrangements have been made with the Norfolk & Western Railroad to provide special air-conditioned coaches to leave Alexandria, Norfolk and Petersburg and to be reunited in such a manner as to pick up at various stations along the way the 139 youth and 55 adult leaders to represent Virginia Methodism at the Convocation.

Richmond, Va., had nearly seven inch downpour of rain last weekend.
